INTRODUCTION

Berry Astrapak is a specialised manufacturer of an extensive range of rigid moulded, and thermoformed plastic packaging products serving the African market.

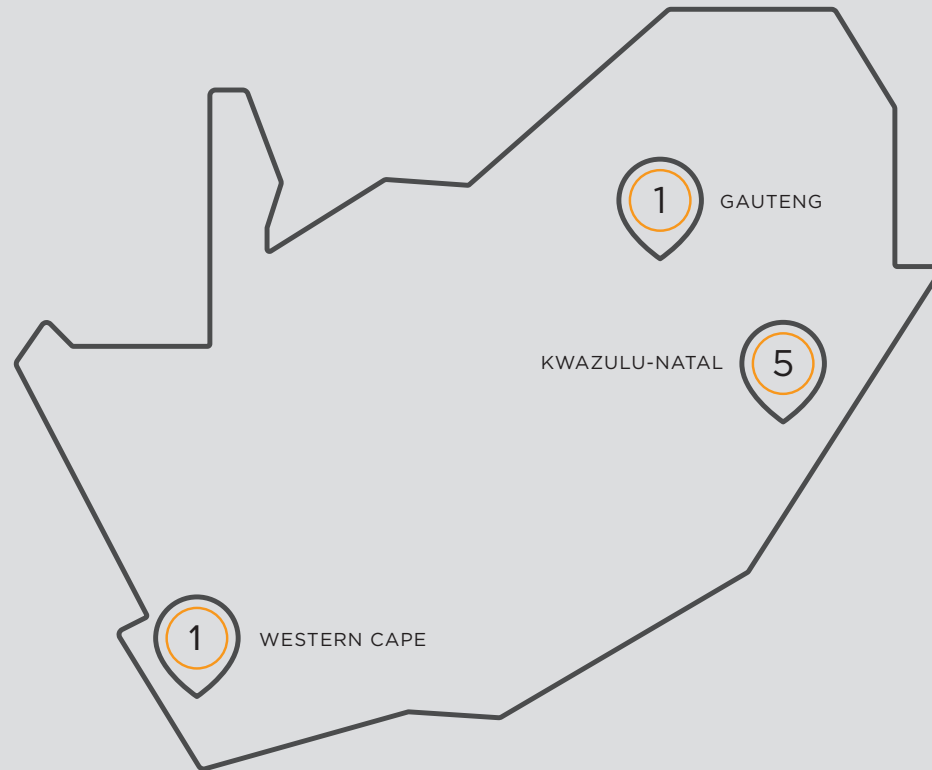

The Group focuses on innovation-led growth in plastic packaging and is structured for long-term sustainability through a balance of organic and project-based growth.

In June 2018, RPC-Astrapak acquired Spec Group, which is made up of three well-known businesses being Spec Tool & Die, Spec Design and Spec Molders. The acquisition was a major milestone in the expansion of Berry Astrapak, providing the company with its own in-house design and mould-making capability along with an experienced management and manufacturing team.

The three divisions which define Berry Astrapak are:

- Moulding
- Forming
- Innovation and Design

MOULDING

Berry Astrapak's Moulding Division is the biggest of the Group's two manufacturing divisions and falls within the rigid plastic packaging spectrum.

ABOUT MOULDING

With six plants across South Africa, Moulding provides a range of markets with superior quality plastic packaging solutions. From the petrochemical market to the cosmetics, food and personal care markets, Berry Astrapak ensures that their client's premium product is packaged to the highest quality standards.

TECHNOLOGY

A wide range of closures, jars, bottles, tubes, cups, tubs and other plastic containers up to a size of five litres are manufactured through the process of extrusion-blow moulding (EBM), injection-blow moulding (IBM) and injection moulding (IM). Decorative techniques include foiling, pressure sensitive labelling, sleeving and printing. Berry Astrapak Marcom serves the dairy market and manufactures thin walled injection-moulded tubs, containers, lids and cups for dairy applications – with in-mould labelling and offset decoration technologies.

MARKETS

Moulding services the automotive lubricant and industrial chemical, food, personal care, home care and cosmetic markets offering customised product to customer's specifications.

FORMING

Forming is one of two manufacturing divisions of the Group and is categorised as a Rigids product manufacturer. The Forming division has two plants in South Africa, both located in the Western Cape.

ABOUT FORMING

Forming provides the market with a wide range of thermoformed and moulded packaging, improving and enhancing their customer's shelf presence. Forming products include thermoformed cups, tubs and trays for dairy and other food applications, together with decorative options. These products have become market leaders in the dairy industry with Forming developing bespoke packaging tubs for some of South Africa's prominent dairy brands and chain stores.

TECHNOLOGY

Berry Astrapak Thermopac and Berry Astrapak Plastform's facilities extrude their own sheet requirements. Plastform has a state-of-the-art sheet extruder to produce sheet film that is then thermoformed. There is an extensive range of generic products available to the market, and both operations also offer the opportunity to develop a unique shape offering to its customer base.

MARKETS

Forming has a well-established presence in the Dairy, Food and Beverage markets, offering their customers a unique and competitive advantage.

INNOVATION AND DESIGN

SPEC INNOVATION & DESIGN CENTRE

Established in 1991, the Durban-based company specialises in the design, manufacture and repair of plastic moulding tools and dies. Spec Tool & Die established Spec Molders, a manufacturing arm of the business, in 2004; and Spec Molders was integrated into the existing operations during September 2018.

Spec Group is widely renowned as one of South Africa's largest independent and most innovative toolrooms through Spec Tool & Die and Spec Design. Their reputation is proven by the immensely successful partnership already demonstrated through the award-winning innovative designs achieved in conjunction with RPC Astrapak prior to the acquisition.

For those bespoke products that don't "fit the mould", let our innovative design team present a unique packaging solution for you and your brand to differentiate your packaging in the market place.

ACCESSING BERRY THROUGH BERRY ASTRAPAK

The acquisition of Spec Group strengthens Berry Astrapak's synergy with Berry Group. Berry has a successful track record of innovation and speed to market using world-class technology, which Berry Astrapak is now in a position to access and emulate.

TUBES

MONOLAYER TUBES

Berry Astrapak's tubes can be manufactured as Monolayer or EVOH Multilayer. The type of tube that is manufactured is largely dependent on the type of product that is being packaged. Unless compatibility trials have been conducted on monolayer tubes and found to be successful, we strongly advise that the following products are packaged in Multilayer tubes:

- SPF
- Essential Oils
- Organic Ingredients
- Clear Gel products
(Face Wash, Body Wash, Hand Sanitizers)

EVOH MULTILAYER TUBES

GAS BARRIER PROPERTIES

EVOH (Ethylene Vinyl Alcohol) resins offer outstanding gas barrier properties, which are superior to those of any other conventional polymer. Food quality generally deteriorates due to the presence of oxygen, EVOH effectively enhances flavour and quality retention by preventing oxygen from penetrating through the package.

RESISTANCE TO OIL AND ORGANIC SOLVENTS

EVOH's resistance to oils and organic solvents is very good. EVOH is therefore suitable for packaging oily foods, edible oils, mineral oils, agricultural pesticides and organic solvents.

AROMA AND FLAVOUR PRESERVATION

EVOH based packaging is effective in retaining fragrances and preserving the aroma and flavour of the contents within the package for the desired period of time. At the same time, undesirable odours are prevented from entering the packaging.
